

Cistus Herb

The grey-haired Cistus (Cistus incanus) is an about 1 metre high shrub plant native to the Mediterranean with pretty pink flowers. In Greece, infusions of Cistus have been enjoyed for centuries as a herbal tea with a pleasant, tart and aromatic flavour. The plant made international headlines a few years ago: A jury of experts awarded Cistus incanus the title of "Plant of Europe 1999" and thereby brought the rockrose to the attention of many nature fans. Nevertheless, in accordance with the Novel-Food Ordinance by the EU, Cistus incanus may not be currently sold in Germany as a tea or as a food. Therefore, we are offering the Cistus or Rockrose herb in the usual and tested quality from controlled organic cultivation as potpourri, for decoration or to improve the air in a room.
